TAYLOR UNDER ARREST.

South Dakota's Missing Treasurer Captured in Memphis.

SAID TO HAVE BEEN TURNED LOOSE

This Statement, However, Is Doubted in Tennessee's Metropolis—Taylor said to Have Made Nothing for Himself by the Mammoth Steal.

PIERRE, S. D., Jan. 12.—The Taylor defalcation still absorbs all interest at the capitol. Ex Governor Mellette came in on Thursday night. He is one of the heaviest bondsmen, and before the flight of Taylor was known even to the state officials he wired from Lafayette, Ind., that he would be here and not to begin suit on the bonds, as he would turn everything over to the state. As Lafayette is the home of Taylor's father, it was supposed that Mr. Mellette would have a proposition from the bondsmen for some sort of settlement.

This is not true. He comes simply as an individual and is unable to throw any direct light upon the situation. He gives some information, however, which has changed the theory on which the people here have been proceeding—namely, that Taylor has been collecting every cent of available cash in order to place the state treasury in such a condition as to force a compromise. The ex-governor has had some intimate business relations with Taylor, and on Thursday last went to Chicago to meet him and straighten them. Taylor had left the day before, and although Mellette searched for him for two days he could get no trace of him. He then went to Lafayette and discovered that Taylor was short; that his friends were unable to help him out, and that the default was inevitable.

Mellette was in Chicago on Dec. 12 and met Taylor there. The latter was apparently in conference with a number of his friends and bondsmen, and with Leppelman, whose bank at Gettysburg failed three months ago, and through that really dragged Taylor down to his ruin. The governor knew Mr. Taylor intimately and trusted him thoroughly. He states that Taylor told him a short time ago the history of the bank at Gettysburg, and the way in which he was caught. During the panic of eighteen months ago the bank got into close quarters, and appealed to Taylor for help. After consulting with various bankers he loaned $40,000 of the state's money, all agreeing that to let the bank fail at that time would endanger every bank in the state, and would probably bring ruin on all the people. As he had helped out several other institutions he helped this.

He soon found, however, that the condition of the institution was much worse than he had suspected, and having placed so great a sum there he sent good money after bad till he had sunk $100,000. Then came his other losses, amounting to fully half as much, and he was unable to borrow or sell. A great amount of property came into his possession from this bank—real estate, merchandise, stock, cattle and other articles—and he made strenuous efforts to sell. In this he failed and for a time his friends helped him out. They reached their limit, however, and he was thrown on his own resources. He could not get money from the east and was caught.

Mellette has no knowledge or suspicion of his whereabouts. It is known that Taylor, a few days ago, put all of his property out of his hands, and even conveyed some trust funds, which will seriously embarrass some of his friends. Investigation seems to show that the bonds are of small value, except one.

It is understood that Taylor's father, who was supposed to be wealthy, cannot be collected from.

TAYLOR NOT ALONE TO BLAME.

It Was Known at the State House That Taylor's Accounts Were Mixed.

SIOUX CITY, Ia., Jan. 12.—E. S. Miller, United States district attorney for the district of South Dakota, in an interview concerning ex State Treasurer Taylor's shortage said:

"I have learned that Taylor has very little, if any of the money taken from the state by him. He was interested largely in banking and had friends who were in speculative enterprises and he loaned to them with the expectation that when the time came to repay it they would be able to make the loans good to him. This they were unable to do and the money has gone where it will never be recovered and where it will never do Taylor any good. If the matter is sifted to the bottom, and I am of the opinion that it will be, there will be some surprises in South Dakota.

"Taylor is not the only man to blame in the affair, either. It was known in state house circles as long as a year or two ago that his accounts were not what they should be, and there was a determined effort made first to renominate him and then to secure the nomination of a man friendly to him in order to cover his tracks. This failed, and of course the shortage came out. The state officers who accepted the bond furnished by Taylor are also to blame. It is a fact that but little can be realized on it. Men were permitted to qualify on the bond for thousands of dollars who were not worth a cent over and above their debts. I can name a dozen men on the bond from whom a cent cannot be recovered. There are some on the bond who are good and who will have to settle, but it will ruin them to do it."

Taylor Arrested in Memphis.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 12. — William Walker Taylor, the absconding South Dakota treasurer, was under arrest here on Thursday and yesterday, but late last evening, according to Chief of Police Davis, he was released. The letters on the prisoner's person from Pierre, Chicago and New York leave no room for doubt, says Chief Davis, that he is the man wanted, but as no replies were received from the telegrams sent to those cities, Taylor was turned loose. Chief Davis was loath to speak of it, but says Taylor is under surveillance, and will be rearrested if wanted. The opinion prevails that Taylor is still in custody and will be produced when wanted.

The Deficit in the Treasury.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—A treasury statement issued shows that the expenditures so far this month exceed the receipts by $5,215,714, while since the deficiency for the fiscal year is $52,778,204. Of the total receipts since this month $7,247,111 was from customs, $1,077,097 from internal revenue and $370,111 from miscellaneous sources. The receipts since June 30 are $70,270,796, and the disbursements $91,051,998.

Governor Matthews Denounces Roby.

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 12.—In his annual message Governor Matthews makes a vigorous attack on the Roby Fair association, which he describes as simply an immense gambling concern, with a racing attachment to give it the appearance of respectability. He urges the legislature to provide a remedy. He also urges the importance of enacting a more stringent law on prize fighting, making it a felony for those who may participate either as principals or seconds. The advertising of a prize fight should be made unlawful and punishable with a fine.

Charged with Unprovoked Murder.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Jan. 12.—Dominico Iasta died at St. Luke's hospital from two bullet wounds in the left breast near the heart. His ante-mortem statement charges Luigi Pasquadazzi with shooting him Saturday night near Honey Brook. Both were Italian coal miners, and were on their way home when the shooting occurred. Iasta declares the shooting was unprovoked. Pasquadazzi is under arrest.

Dismembered by a Train.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Jan. 12.—Daniel Ansbach, of Nesopeck, a brakeman on the Philadelphia and Erie division of the Pennsylvania railroad, was run over and killed in the Mt. Carbon yards. Ansbach was married and had two children.

Rescued from a Living Tomb.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Jan. 12.—Charles Dietzel was rescued from Richardson colliery after having spent fifty four hours in a living tomb. His "butty," August Brenner, was taken out of the mine dead several hours later. Both men were found side by side, one covered by a mass of coal and the other sitting in a space that left no room for him to move anything but his head. Dietzel was so weak he had to be handled like a helpless babe. His body is painfully bruised. The doctors attending him say he will live.

The Weather Tomorrow.

For eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, District of Columbia and Virginia, fair; colder; westerly winds. The cold wave in the northwest will reach this section by tonight or tomorrow. The temperature will fall in nearly all eastern districts, and will fall in nearly all Eastern districts, and will rise in the northwest. The weather will be fair in all sections with the probable exception of New England.

Greg Loftus' Luck.

I have heard that no girl (Miss Cissy —not even Miss Nellie Bly, I believe) —ever received as many proposals of marriage in the course of one short year as did Miss Cissy Loftus during her brief, bright reign over the hearts of the jeunesse dorée. And her offers were good ones—at least many of them were, from a worldly point of view. There was at least one son of an earl, and a youthful and wealthy baronet, perhaps more, for all I know to the contrary, for Miss Loftus was not boastful, and there were at least half a dozen young men whose rent rolls or less aristocratic income touched £10,000 a year. As for the ineligibles, their name was legion, and there would have been more gossip anent Miss Cissy's love affairs than there was had she not been so circumspect a maiden and so extremely youthful that her marriage seemed a remote contingency indeed.—London Letter in Boston Transcript.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

The Return to General Resumption Comes Very Slowly.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: Neither the beginning of the new year nor the failure of the currency bill has brought any material change to business as yet. The idea that business would suddenly take a new start after the holidays had rather less foundation even than usual, but the hope of strong revival a little later is still cherished by many.

There has not been much time for change in the industries, but differences observed since the new year began are not in the direction of higher prices or larger demand. There are more indications than of late that stocks of different kinds of goods have been accumulating in consequence of past increase in production.

The weekly output of pig iron Jan. 1, reckoning in some furnaces only temporarily out of blast for the holidays or repairs, was 168,112 tons, against 168,762 Dec. 1, showing practically no change. But stocks of unsold pig increased during the month about 20,000 tons weekly, so that actual consumption in the manufacture seems to have been about 148,000 tons weekly against 157,000 in November. In any case the industry is doing vastly better than a year ago, when the output was less than 109,000 tons, but indications of excess of production over demand are found in further weakness of prices.

The failures for the past week have been 420 in the United States, against 471 for the same week last year, and 54 in Canada, against 57 last year.

Bradstreets' review says: The second week of the new year brings few reports of an increasing volume of orders for seasonable goods. Weather conditions in the east have been unfavorable, those west and south the reverse. Chicago, St. Louis, Boston, New York and Philadelphia report relatively greatest improvement. At some centers it is too early to judge of the outlook for trade. Production of iron and steel is going on in excess of demand, but manufacturers expect that necessary repairs, renewals and additions by railroad car manufacturers and other industrial enterprises will have a stimulating influence in the near future.

Striking at the Whisky Trust.

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—The United States circuit court of appeals took up the appeal of the whisky trust from the decision of Judge Grosscup, awarding $37,000 of rebates to the Gottschalk company, of Baltimore. The issue that is made strikes at the foundation of the trust. In order to keep its hold upon the trade the trust granted to all dealers who handle its goods exclusively a rebate of from two to five cents a gallon. Gottschalk & Co. were distributors for the trust, and had a claim for $30,000 rebates. The firm declined to fill out the form required by the trust, and were refused the payment of the rebates. Suit for its collection was then begun and in April last Judge Grosscup rendered judgment against the trust, for $37,112.67, from which decision an appeal was taken.

Accused Bank President Surrenders.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—William W. Weston, president of the Honesdale, Pa., Savings bank, surrendered himself yesterday in Recorder Goff's court on an indictment charging him with having aided and abetted the alteration of certain notes. The complainant is H. Simmons. The grand jury returned an indictment against Weston, who surrendered here before the papers in the case could be sent to Honesdale. He was bailed out by William Brookfield. P. J. Kellam is in the Tombs on a charge somewhat similar to the one against Weston.

Urging an Increased Appropriation.

HARRISBURG, Jan. 12.—Adjutant General Greenland states in his report to Governor Pattison for 1894, the advance sheets of which have just been issued, that the annual appropriation for the expenses of the National Guard of the state is not sufficient to keep it on the high plane it has attained, and recommends that the appropriation be increased from $320,000 to $350,000 a year. The item of pay alone was greater by $7,000 in 1894 than in the previous year and $10,000 in excess of 1891.

THE BLUE AND THE GRAY

Sensational Discussion in the Lower House of Congress.

THE FIGHT OVER A PENSION BILL.

A Proposition to Pension General McClernand Meets with Opposition from a Southern Member, Which Arouses the Ire of Representative Champ Clark.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—Practically the whole of yesterday's session of the senate was occupied in the discussion of Mr. Hill's amendment to the urgent deficiency bill designed to afford an opportunity to test the constitutionality of the income tax law. Mr. Hill delivered a long and carefully prepared speech in support of his amendment. Mr. Dubois (Idaho) followed in support of the appropriation to make the law operative, but soon drifted into a discussion of the silver question in which he said that no currency bill could pass that was not liberal towards silver. Mr. Quay (Pa.) supported Mr. Hill's amendment and said it would be the duty of the next Republican congress to repeal the law. Messrs. Sherman (O.) and Mitchell (Ore.) thought the appropriation should be made. Before adjournment Mr. Morgan (Ala.) raised and the chair sustained a point of order against the amendment, from which Mr. Hill appealed and action on this was laid over.

Yesterday was private bill day in the house, but only one bill was considered, a claim of the heirs of William Johnson, of Fayette county, Tenn., for $13,000 worth of stores confiscated during the war. On account of the opposition the bill was finally withdrawn. Nine bills were passed by unanimous consent. The most important was to amend the shipping act of Aug. 19, 890, so as to eliminate some of the penal provisions of that act, which had proved unduly harsh in their application to seamen on board vessels engaged in the coastwise and nearby foreign trade. Another bill was passed to protect the salmon fisheries of Alaska.

The feature of the night session of the house was the debate which grew out of the attempt of Mr. Springer (Ills.) to pass a bill granting $100 per month to Major General John A. McClernand. Mr. Jones (Va.) insisted upon making the point of no quorum. Mr. Springer, in a heated speech, lectured those of his southern Democratic colleagues who constantly assumed an attitude of hostility toward the pensions of Union soldiers. He called attention to the fact that thirteen Democrats had been returned to the house from the north. He warned them that if their course was persisted in none would be returned the succeeding congress.

Mr. Pence (Colo.) in an earnest speech appealed to Mr. Jones to withdraw his point and spoke of the well known, distinguished patriotic services of General McClernand when Mr. Waugh (Ind.) threw a bombshell into the discussion by asking if the beneficiary of this bill was not the same General John A. McClernand who was relieved from command before Vicksburg, by General Grant, for unsoldierly conduct, and of whom General Halleck said it was premeditated murder to place him in command. The attack on General McClernand came from an unexpected source and Mr. Marsh (Ills.) and others hastened to his defense. Mr. Marsh declared hotly that General McClernand had never been guilty of unsoldierly conduct and the history of the transaction would show that he had not been removed by General Grant for that reason.

"Did not General Grant remove him for causes which he deemed proper?" persisted Mr. Waugh.

"I do not desire to impugn the character of General Grant," replied Mr. Marsh sharply, "but I desire to say that his action in this case was a mistake."

"What reason did General Grant assign?" interrupted Mr. Cox (Tenn). "Was it not because he was too quick at Vicksburg?"

"I never heard it charged against Grant," replied Mr. Marsh, "that he criticized a soldier for going in too quick."

The discussion was prolonged for more than two hours, and was marked by several sensational scenes, one of which was by the passing of Mr. Jones when he said that the widow of General John A. Logan, who received a pension of $2,000 a year, was living in social luxury in this city and annually spent more than her pension money for flowers displayed by her at her social functions. Later, when he proclaimed his pride in the Confederate cause, that had gone down in defeat, the Republicans in chorus shouted: "We have no doubt of it," and the galleries many of the spectators applauded vigorously.

Mr. Springer was finally forced to withdraw the bill.

But even after the bill had been withdrawn Mr. Champ Clark (Mo.) got the floor, and in a characteristic speech scored Mr. Jones roundly, as he said, on behalf of his Democratic colleagues of the north. He began by saying that the Democratic party presented a dissolving view, and would soon be lost to sight, though to memory dear. He attributed much of the Democratic disaster last fall to the course of southern Democrats on the pension question and charged the defeat of at least fifty northern Democrats to the speeches of Mr. Jones. He then paid a magnificent tribute to McClernand. After appealing to Mr. Jones to allow this meritorious bill to go through, he turned to him and said impressively that the Democrats of the north were sick and tired of having their southern party associates come to congress and stab their party in the back. "We are through with you," Mr. Clark concluded. After passing two bills the house at 12 o'clock adjourned.

Chandler, of Concord, 224.

SMALLPOX AT ROBY.

The Notorious Indiana Gambling Resort Invaded by Disease.

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—Aid from an unexpected source has come to the Indiana authorities, who have for months been racking their brains as to the best method of closing and keeping closed the race track at Roby. An epidemic of smallpox has broken out and there is a wild scrambling among the touts, stablemen and jockeys to reach a more healthful locality. The authorities of Illinois have for some time been keeping a close watch on the track to prevent too many of the hangers on of the place from invading Chicago. Every jockey or stableman who cannot show an approximation to a clean bill of health is told that Chicago has troubles enough of its own, without importing them from the Roby race track. When the man shows symptoms of smallpox he is promptly taken to the pest house.

Seven men from the Roby track, all with smallpox in its worst form, have been brought to the pest house within three days. The Chicago authorities are powerless to move against the plague spot, as it is under the jurisdiction of the Indiana board of health. That body promptly received notice of the prevalence of the disease and of the danger which threatened Chicago from its continued existence.

It is probable that a corps of physicians from the Indiana board will be sent to the track to vaccinate everybody in the place and to thoroughly fumigate the stables and other buildings of the track. The track is closed at present and it is not likely that the state medical authorities will allow it to reopen, even if the management wishes to do so.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12.—Louis H. Hyde, who resides at Orange, N. It is understood that a number of corporations and individuals largely affected by the income tax have combined to protect their interest and to test the constitutionality of the act.

AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE ROBBED.

Major Algord, President of the College at Stillwater, O. T., Declares That the Regents Have Been Misappropriating the Money of the Institution.

GUTHRIE, O. T., Jan. 12.—Major Henry E. Algord, president of the Agricultural and Mercantile college at Stillwater, in his annual report, makes sensational charges against the college officials. He declares both the Republican and Democratic boards of regents have plundered the institution. During the first seven months of the existence of the college, he says, $17,000 was spent, though not a dollar went into buildings, and the institution occupied a small rented church.

Mr. Algord said that in less than two years the members of the board of regents drew $8,630 in mileage and that a secretary has been employed to fill an imaginary office, he drawing $115 a month. The treasurer, he says, although he handled nearly $40,000, turned over no records and has never made a settlement with the new treasurer.

Major Algord concludes by saying the regents refuse to heed his protests, and tenders his immediate resignation, with the promise of laying the matter fully before the secretary of the interior and the secretary of agriculture. The college draws most of its funds from the general government. President Algord is one of the leading agricultural college men of the nation, and came here from Washington only a few months ago.

HELD UP BY SNAKES.

AN ARMY ENGINEER'S EXCITING NIGHT IN THE NORTHWEST.

A Walking Stick That Had Nineteen Rattles—Roosting on a Bowlder and Surrounded by Wolves—A Buzzing Noise That Is Far From Musical.

"We reached the Wolf mountain, in the Big Horn country, one day in September," said H. P. Tuttle, formerly an army engineer, "while to the south were dimly visible the outlines of the Rattlesnake mountains. These names were given to these mountains by both the Crow and Sioux Indians, who regarded them with horror. Late on the afternoon of our first day in these mountains I sent all of my party to camp, about two miles to the southwest. Going forward with my transit to where I had sent my head flagman, I placed it in position and told him he could return to camp, as I had to remain in order to make an astronomical observation early in the evening.

"Taking off his belt, which held a huge revolver and a sheath knife about a foot in length, he handed it to me, saying that I might need it after dark, as he had just seen a small pack of wolves ahead. After he had gone I looked over the ground about me and saw that I was on a flat topped hill covered with large bowlders and small stones, but entirely destitute of vegetation. Seating myself beside a big bowlder, I took out my notebook and began writing up my notes for the day, when darkness suddenly reminded me that it was about time to make my astronomical observations. This was soon over, and I started off at a brisk walk toward our camp.

"I had not gone over a hundred yards when I saw, a few feet ahead of me, a long, black object lying directly in my path. I wanted a walking stick badly, and was stooping down to pick it up when I noticed the end of it farthest from me was white. Taking a match from my pocket and tearing a leaf from the back of my notebook, I soon had the desired light, and what was my horror to see that the supposed stick was nothing but one of the deadly green rattlesnakes, completely paralyzed by the chilly night air.

"Another light showed that the white object was the snake's rattles. So old was he that his rattles had turned white. Holding my revolver within a foot of his head, I fired and blew it entirely off. But now came another surprise, which for a moment made me tremble. The report of my revolver had awakened dozens of rattlers who had sought shelter under the loose rocks before sunset. The sounds came from all directions, and some seemed close to my feet.

"To one who has been in the forest and heard the noise made by hundreds of locusts he can readily realize my situation, for the buzz of a rattlesnake is exactly like the buzz of a locust. The only thing now for me to do was to stand in my tracks all night or make my way back to the bowlder from which I started, but there was a difficulty, for in the excitement I had forgotten the direction. But 'where there is a will there is a way,' and by stooping low down and scanning the horizon I soon detected the outline of my transit against the sky, and cutting off the rattles I was soon beside the bowlder and filled with excitement enough for one night.

"Sitting down by the bowlder, I made up my mind to pass the night at that spot and was soon sleeping as soundly as one can in the open air, with only a canvas coat and the mercury below freezing. About midnight I was suddenly aroused by something trying to pull off the shoe from my left foot. In an instant I caught the glaring eyes and outline of a wolf. He had given up his grip as he saw me move, and mechanically I seized my revolver, which I had left lying in my lap, and fired as best I could with my half frozen hand.

"A loud yell showed that he had been struck, and immediately a dozen or more wolves who had been close by set up a howling, which in the still night air could have been heard for miles around. For an hour or two all was quiet, when a solitary howl a few yards from me was answered by a dozen others not 100 yards away. It was too dark to see an animal of the size of a wolf more than 20 feet away; but, trusting to luck, I took the direction of the pack as near as possible and sent three shots at them as rapidly as I could fire.

"A couple of yells showed two had been hit, most probably by glancing bullets. Soon after this the howling of the wolves ceased, and for awhile all was quiet again.

"As soon as it was light enough I picked up the string of rattles which I had secured the night before and found there were 19, and as the 'button' was missing he may have had several more. A few rods from my transit lay the cleanly picked bones of a wolf which one of my random shots had killed during the night, and on which the coyotes had made a substantial meal, but, not satisfied with this, they had devoured the big rattler I had killed, head and all.

"Returning to camp, I ordered one of my men to cut ten small poles, not less than eight feet in length, and to wake me up at 10 o'clock. At that hour we all started for the place where I had passed the night. Here we found, as I had expected, the warm rays of the sun had brought out the snakes from their hiding places to bask in the sunshine.

"We were greeted with a defiance not unlike that of a thousand duly beasts, and the work of destruction began in real earnest. In one hour and ten minutes our bag contained 213 rattlers, varying from one foot to over three feet in length, and of a dark green color. Only two were found whose rattles had turned gray. We could have destroyed hundreds more had our time not been too valuable to waste in such sport. We saw but few rattlers after leaving this point, but the wolves made night hideous until we reached the Little Missouri river, a month later."—Kansas City Journal.

DAWSON'S NARROW ESCAPE.

He Couldn't Be Expelled From a No Work Club "For Obvious Reasons."

Bailey Dawson was in danger of being expelled from the Society of Christian Repose. The object of the society, as its name indicates, is to discourage endeavor of any character, and its members, who comprise such well known old residents as Colonel A. M. Babcock, A. N. Kellogg, founder of the newspaper publishing concern; Frank Parmelee of the bus line, and others, are men who think they have done their work in life and now only ask for rest. They meet at the Grand Pacific hotel and do not even talk much, preferring to sit in the easy chairs in the rotunda and look at each other.

But last week Colonel Babcock brought a serious charge against Bailey. He said he had gone to work; what is more, he had the evidence to prove it.

Things looked really badly for Bailey. The work was no harder than that involved in drawing the pay attached to a political office, but it was work, and he could not deny it. So he took refuge in technicalities. Mr. Kellogg was trying the case, and to him Bailey made this plea:

"If it pleases the court," he said, "the members of this society must not do any work of any kind?"

"They must not," replied Colonel Babcock sternly.

"They should not indulge in any kind of effort?"

"Certainly not," again interjected the colonel.

"They cannot consistently take action of any description?"

"They assuredly cannot."

"Then," said Bailey triumphantly, "I would like to know how they are going to expel a member; that means action." And President Kellogg sustained him, holding that it would be impossible constitutionally to even take a vote on the charges.—Chicago Tribune.

MONOCLES IN EUROPE.

Their Use Believed to Have Originated In the British Army.

In every capital of Europe the monocle is common enough. It attracts no attention on the street. In a row of men at the theater a considerable proportion are sure to have it. Perhaps half the officers in the German army wear monocles. They are to be seen in abundance at any meeting of the French academy. Even socialist deputies in France are not ashamed to go among their constituents wearing them. A session of the English house of commons glitters with solitary eyeglasses. The single eyeglass is said to have originated among the officers of the British army.

About the beginning of the century an order was issued that army officers should not wear eyeglasses or spectacles. It was supposed that they gave the wearers an unmilitary appearance. The order caused severe inconvenience to many short sighted officers, and one of them, belonging to a crack regiment, invented the single eyeglass. He claimed that, being an eyeglass, its use was no contravention of the order which prohibited spectacles and eyeglasses. It soon became very popular in the army and was afterward adopted. On account probably of this origin the single eyeglass is very generally worn in Europe by army officers.

It is by some thought to give an aspect of determination and ferocity to the wearer, whereas eyeglasses lend an air of feebleness.—New York World.

Lincoln's Views on Assassination.

That night as we walked back to the White House through the grounds between the war department buildings and the house I fancied that I saw in the misty moonlight a man dodging behind one of the trees. My heart for a moment stood still, but as we passed in safety I came to the conclusion that the dodging figure was a creature of the imagination. Nevertheless as I parted from the president at the door of the White House I could not help saying that I thought his going to and fro in the darkness of the night, as it was usually his custom, often alone and unattended, was dangerous recklessness.

That night, in deference to his wife's anxious appeal, he had provided himself with a thick oaken stick. He laughed as he showed me this slight weapon and said, but with some seriousness: "I long ago made up my mind that if anybody wants to kill me he will do it. If I wore a shirt of mail and kept myself surrounded by a bodyguard, it would be all the same. There are a thousand ways of getting at a man if it is desired that he should be killed. Besides in this case it seems to me the man who would come after me would be just as objectionable to my enemies—if I have any."—Noah Brooks in Century.

Lady Rosebery's Necklace.

Some years ago an old Frenchwoman died in a poor part of Dublin, and her little effects were put up for auction. Among other odds and ends was a necklace of dirty looking green stones, which did not attract much attention. However, a shrewd pair of Jews thought there might be "money in it" and decided on purchasing, clubbing together £5 for the purpose.

On taking it to a well known jeweler he promptly offered £1,500, which sum they refused, and sold the necklace of purest emeralds for £7,000 in London, where Lord Rosebery on his marriage purchased it for something like £20,000.

The old Frenchwoman's mother had been attached to the court of France, and the emeralds had once formed part of the crown jewels.—London Answers.

SCHAGHTICOKE, N.Y.—It is ignorance rather than anything else that makes life miserable, but ignorance of the value of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy does not exist in Schaghticoke to-day; as a blood medicine and nerve tonic it stand surpreme. One of the principal reasons for its popularity comes from the great benefit our fellow townsman, Andrew Sipperley derived from its use. Mr. Sipperley has suffered for years past, with a chronic kidney trouble, frequent bilious attacks, and, at intervals with violent neuralgia in the head and face. Up to last fall he rarely knew a well day. At that time his wife who had learned of the good Dr. Kennedy's Favorite Remedy had accomplished, determind to have him use it. In writing about his sickness, Mr. Sipperley said:

"For several years I was subject to attacks of kidney trouble and gravel, which were attended with most excruciating pain, but since I began the use of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy I have had no serious trouble, and my general health is greatly improved. I know of a great many people about here who have used Favorite Remedy, and in every instantce benefit has followed One of the officers of the Albany, N.Y. Hospital recenty said, in speaking of Favorite Remedy: "I know of its great medical value, and to my knowledge it cures the disease for which it is prepared."

The great value of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy lies in the fact that it dissolves the excess of of uric acid in the blood. Such ailments as rheumatism, neuralgia, nervousness, dyspepsia, kidney, liver and urinary troubles, and the sickness peculiar to women all come from this one cause. Favorite Remedy dissolves this acid and expels it from the system, thus curing the disease. In cases of scrofula, diabetes and Bright's disease, it has cured where other treatments have failed.

LITERARY NOTES

—An old-fashioned sea story full of interest and adventure, with a strong love motive, is begun by W. Clark Russell in the January Cosmopolitan. "Ouida" succeeds Froude, Grosse, Lecky and other distinguished writers with an instalment of the "Great Passions of History" series, which has been appearing in the Cosmopolitan. A discussion is aroused by Mr. Edward Bok's article on "The Young Man and The Church," which will consume tons of ink before it settled. Just preceding the famous Charcot's death he prepared an article for the Cosmopolitan on Pasteur, to be published after Pasteur's death. But Charcot has died first, and so with the consent of Charcot's executors, the article is given now. The present "Theatrical Season in New York" is critically considered by Mr. James S. Metcalfe, editor of Life, and there are stories by Tourgee, Howells, and the famous French writer Francois Coppee.

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J. Gunderman, of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist Church at Rives Junction she was taken down with pneumonia, succeeding la grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption, and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at McMonagle and Rogers' Drug Store. Regular size 50c, and $1.00.

THE HEROINE OF JOHNSTOWN.

Mrs. Hastings, Wife of Pennsylvania's New Governor, Well Deserves the Title.

Mrs. Daniel Hartman Hastings, wife of the new governor of Pennsylvania, may well be called the heroine of the Johnstown flood. Her husband was the hero, and as she was early at the scene of death and desolation and for days and weeks labored incessantly to relieve the suffering inhabitants of the stricken city she may quite appropriately be termed the heroine of the flood. Mrs. Hastings is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Rankin, one of the old and respected families of Bellefonte. She is a brunette of medium height, with dark hair and eyes and a charming manner that instantly places the most embarrassed visitor at ease. Refined, intelligent, well educated, ambitious and tactful and yet thoroughly domestic, she has been a helpmeet indeed to her talented husband.

A dozen years ago, when the governor was a struggling young Center county lawyer just beginning his political career, she read all his speeches before he delivered them and he found her advice and criticism of great value. In the summer of 1890, when Mr. Hastings made such a strong fight for the gubernatorial nomination, Mrs. Hastings accompanied him on his campaigning tours and won him many friends. Although Delamater stood at the head of the nomination in place of her husband she was not disheartened and remarked that better luck would come in four years. How true her prediction proved is a matter of recent history.

After the governor came the throng of congratulations and he was as glad as she was at the brilliant success of his campaign. The first words of congratulation and encouragement that greeted the general could take them in hand. She is stately, self-possessed and reserved, and those who know her well predict a brilliant career for the wife of the governor of Pennsylvania. She is a member of Mrs. Harrison's reception committee, and will be a strong right hand to her husband, who, even as early as about a year ago, will be without doubt the most talked of man in the state.

Indiana University Claims This Honor Among the State Colleges.

Indiana State university, the oldest college in the west, will dedicate a new building with imposing ceremonies in Bloomington on Jan. 25. The building is called Kirkwood hall, in honor of Professor Daniel Kirkwood, who occupied the chair of mathematics in the university for over 25 years. It is a handsome stone structure and cost $60,000. The governor of Indiana, nearly all the state officers and many of the alumni will be present. Professor Kirkwood who is now a resident of Los Angeles and an honorary professor of astronomy in Leland Stanford, Jr., university, has also written President Joseph Swain that he will be on hand to assist in dedicating the handsome structure that bears his name. President Angell of Michigan university will deliver the dedicatory address, and Governor Matthews will also speak.

Indiana State university is a non-sectarian institution and was organized in 1828. Forty instructors are employed, and the attendance of students is about 500. One of the features of the institution is co-education, and another is the valuable library, consisting of over 18,000 volumes. The university receives the graduates of all the high schools in the state and is free to all. The total number of pupils graduating since the founding of the university in 1828 is said to be only 1,076, and there are 941 alumni living, the oldest of whom is M. M. Campbell, A. B., of North Topeka, who was graduated from the university in the year 1836.

Fire has played no small part in the college's history. In 1854 the buildings were swept away by a conflagration, and the same calamity overtook the university in 1883. About ten years ago the legislature ordered a half cent tax on the property of the state, and it is believed that when the bill expires in 1896 the university will receive a total sum of about $1,000,000. In 1890 women were admitted to all the privileges of the college, and the management has never had reason from the first state institution to take this progressive and liberal [illegible]

SATURDAY, JAN. 12, 1895.

A three-year-old boy, left alone for a few minutes with his six-months-old sister, at Norstrand, Minn., took a shovelful of hot coals from the stove and poured them on the baby's head, killing it and setting fire to the house. Unfortunately the young fiend escaped from the house uninjured.

Philadelphia Democrats have decided to nominate Governor Pattison for Mayor. They say he has never been beaten, has twice carried Pennsylvania, is honest and fearless, and possesses the executive ability and experience necessary in a movement against the rings that are pillaging the city. It is believed that the reform sentiment can be united in his support, and that despite the great majorities rolled up for Republican candidates in recent years that he can carry the city.

All competitors having withdrawn, Stephen B. Elkins was nominated, yesterday, for United States Senator, by the caucus of the Republican members of the West Virginia Legislature. In his speech of acceptance, Mr. Elkins said: "My gratitude goes out to you as rivers flow to the sea." That's the way his boodle went out in the last election and made a Republican Legislature possible.

Henry Gannett, a Census Bureau expert, who has recently completed an investigation of the negro population of the United States, finds that the negroes, while increasing rapidly in number, are decreasing relatively to the whites. There is a marked emigration southward to the South Atlantic and Gulf States. The race is making some progress in education, but the proportion of criminals is far greater than among the whites. Pauperism is very prevalent among them and many of the old barbaric superstitions survive. As a whole the showing is far from encouraging and indicates that thirty years of freedom have done but comparatively little for the advancement and civilzation of the great mass of Southern negroes.

ALCANTARA COMES TO STONY FORD

Mr Backman Buys the Famous Sire from Mr. Bonner.

The great sire Alcantara, sold at the Kellogg sale, Wednesday, for $10,000, was really bought by A. A. Bonner. Yesterday Mr. Bonner sold the horse to Charles Backman, of the Stony Ford stock farm, and the horse will be shipped there to day. The New York papers say that this is the first stallion of the George Wilkes blood ever in the stud at Stony Ford, but local horsemen say that this is not true, Mr. Backman having owned other Wilkes stallions, though he has made but little use of them.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—The treasury's ten days statement shows that the customs receipts at New York for the first ten days of January aggregated $5,395,069, as against $3,025,147 for the first ten days of January, 1894. These receipts are nearly double those for any ten days during the past calendar year.

SUITS AGAINST THE ELECTRIC ROAD

Several Persons Want Big Damages for Alleged Injuries.

As was expected by Middletowners who have become accustomed to actions for damages, the Traction Co. will be compelled to defend its share of suits of this kind. The road has been in operation but a few months, yet four of these suits have been commenced.

Frederick C. Snyder, by his guardian, Geo. M. Snyder, through his counsel, B. F. Chadsey, has brought suit in Supreme Court for $10,000, for injuries alleged to have been sustained by being knocked from a car by a pole on the day of the opening of Midway Park.

Chas. W. Jacobus, through Mr. Chadsey, sues for $5,000, for injuries sustained by being thrown from a runaway car on the Mechanictown hill.

Chas. W. Randall, leader of the Chester Band, who was knocked down by a car at the corner of West Main street and Wickham avenue, the morning of the firemen's parade in Passaic, has also brought suit for $1,000.

The plaintiff in the fourth suit is George Kane, who claims to have been thrown from his wagon and injured by a car, which struck his wagon several weeks ago.

PUBLIC VOICE.

Mr. Lea Has $10,000 in Gold, Not in Half Dollars.

EDITORS ARGUS: In your paper of the 9th you stated that "Banker John E Corwin has sent to New York for $5,000 in half dollars, to be used in connection with Mr. Geo. Lea's theatrical venture next week." I wish to make a correction of the above article, as the amount of money that Banker Corwin sent for to the mint, in Philadelphia, is $10,000 in $5 gold pieces, which is now on exhibition in H. S. Duselberry & Son's window, which is a guarantee that the Ellinwood players, who are to appear at the Casino Theatre, next week, will do all that is advertised. Yours truly,
GEORGE LEA.

WE HAVE TAKEN

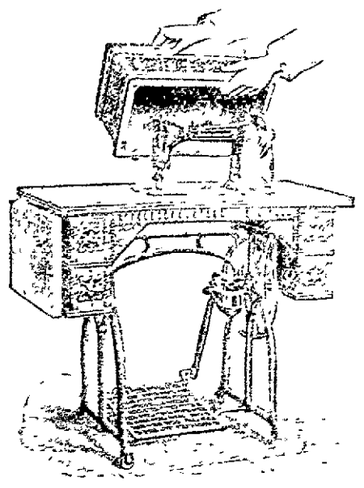
Sole Agency for the Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machines for Orange Co.



Our Christmas trade has been one of the largeet and most successful in all our 21 years' experience.and now we are getting ready for 1895, and intend to make the Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machines one of our leading features. Our terms will be most liberal. What a nice New Year's present one of these machines will make. A solid Oak cabinet, upholstered in silk plush, worth $5, will be presented to every purchaser of a machine before Jan. 1st, 1895. Respectfully,

E. Crawford Furniture Co.

44-46 North Street.

Middletown, N. Y.

SEE THAT SIGN IN OUR WINDOW?

"Any cake of soap here for 10 cents."

That means considerable — each cake of it is a bargain at the price while some of it is worth nearly double what we ask for it.

Then why?

Well, one of our "good resolutions" is to sell more Toilet Soap this year (every good resolution ought to include soap) and we are going to do it.

Oh, no, there's no Buttermilk Soap in that window—Buttermilk Soap is only 7 cents with us.

Will any of that soap cure chapped hands?

Why, you don't use soap for that purpose. Soap is for cleanliness and you want a bland, pure, pleasant, non irritating soap such as we sell,—but for chapped hands or rough skin, you want our Orange Flower Balm Some people whose mothers used it on them when children, are now using it on their little ones. That's good enough evidence.

McMonagle & Rogers.

3,000 Yds. of Hamburg Edging.

Insertions and All Over Embroidery

TO BE SOLD AT COST. We have over one hundred pieces, all different patterns, which we will close out as soon as there are people enough to take them. We will discontinue the above line of goods when they are closed out. This is the only reason for this cut in price. Do you know a good thing when you see it. If you do here is an opportunity that is very seldom offered on.

A NEW BUSINESS VENTURE

The Middletown Wagon Company to Open a Large Repository for the Sale of Wagons and Harness

Dr. F. M. Barnes and Mr. William F. Royce have formed a co-partnership under the firm name of the Middletown Wagon Company, and, on February 1st, will open a repository on Henry street, in the new building recently erected by Mr. Royce.

The building is a three story and basement structure, 16½x74 feet, and has storage capacity for 125 wagons. The Honesdale Iron Company has contracted to put in an elevator for hoisting and lowering wagons to and from the several floors.

The firm has secured the agency of the Studebaker Bros. Manufacturing Co., of South Bend, Ind., formerly represented by Mr. H. H. Blanchard, who has given up the business, and say they will be prepared to furnish any kind of a vehicle from a push cart to the best farm wagon or finest carriage.

The second story of the adjoining building will be connected with the wagon department and fitted up for a harness room, in which will be kept everything in that line.

It is the intention of the company to carry in stock the most complete line of both wagons and harness in Orange county.

The business proper will not be in operation before Feb. 1st, but the company has a stock of sleighs on hand which are ready for sale at any time.

Dr. Barnes will retire entirely from dental practice and devote his whole time to the business of the company. Mr. Royce will continue his coal business as usual.

RAILROAD DEPARTMENT Y. M. C. A.

Active Measures Being Taken for Its Organization—The O. and W. Willing to Help.

Active measures are being taken to organize a railroad department of the Young Men's Christian Association in this city. Petitions are being circulated among all the railroad men asking for the proposed association. The officials of the O. and W. so far appreciate the work of the Y. M. C. A. that they have expressed their willingness to generously aid in the support of such an institution, provided a sufficient number of the men express a desire for it by signing the petitions. It will be located near the station and shops, and will contain bath rooms, reading room, parlors, etc. It is to be hoped that the men will take an active interest in the matter.

A PRIVATE MASQUERADE.

Miss Hattie Hulse Entertains Her Young Friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Gillett, last evening, gave a masquerade party for their daughter, Miss Hattie Hulse. There were present about sixty young people, mostly from this city.

The costumes were all home made, but considerable skill and good taste were displayed in designing them. Some were pretty and some were just as much the opposite as it was possible to make them.

It goes without saying that the young people had a good time and that there were, as is always the case, many surprises when the time came to unmask.

Mrs. Gillett provided a fine supper and as the young folks had acquired good appetites by dancing during the early part of the evening, the viands disappeared rapidly.

Those present were so delighted with the affair that this is doubtless only the beginning of private masquerades in this city.

Gospel Temperance Union.

At the regular meeting, this evening, in the Free Christian Church, the president will give an interesting account of his recent trip to Canada. The subject, "Is the trolley running Sunday, worse than the saloon?" will be discussed.

A Surprise Party.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Corkey were surprised, last night, by about seventy-five of their friends, who visited their home, 87 Sprague avenue. A fine supper was served and a delightful evening was spent. Dancing was kept until 3 o'clock in the morning. Music was furnished by Barnes's orchestra.

Dissolution of Partnership.

The well known firm of Brown, Suffern & Co., cattle dealers, has been dissolved, Mr. Suffern having purchased the interests of his partners and formed a partnership with Israel Talbert, a capitalist of Tioga county, under the firm name of S. Z. Suffern & Co.

Sale of Money by the B. and L. Association.

The Homestead Building and Loan Association, last evening, sold $1,200 at a premium of 29½ per cent.

GOSHEN AGAIN VICTORIOUS

The Athletic Club Team Outbowls Middletown's Militiamen at Midway Park.

The bowling team from the Goshen Athletic Club added another victory to its already long list of successes, last evening, by again defeating the team from the 24th Separate Company. The bowling alleys at Midway Park were crowded with spectators, the Goshen contingent being in the majority.

The 24th won the first game by the narrow margin of three points. Goshen took the next game easily and the third by another close score.

The referees and scorers were Messrs. Rose and Cooper for the 24th, and Haight and Kipp for Goshen.

The contest now stands six games for Goshen to four for the 24th.

Fourteen years ago they removed to Port Jervis.

Mrs. Van Inwegen is survived by two sons and four daughters, all of whom reside in Port Jervis, except Mary Ann, wife of S. G. Beyea, of this city.

In Olden Times.

People overlooked the importance of permanently beneficial effects and were satisfied with transient action; but now that it is generally known that Syrup of Figs will permanently cure habitual constipation, well-informed people will not buy other laxatives, which act for a time, but finally injure the system.

The Revivals at the Presbyterian and Methodist Churches to Be Continued—Some Scarlet Fever in Town—The Vocal Society Resumes Its Rehearsals—Where Men Are to Be Envied.

—The prayer meetings at the Presbyterian and Methodist Churches have been so well attended that they will be continued next week and until further notice.

—As many wagons as sleighs were seen on our streets yesterday.

—There are a few cases of scarlet fever in town, but all are reported as being of a very mild character.

—The regular rehearsals of the Vocal Society were resumed last evening. During the revival they will be held at 8:30 instead of the usual hour. The chorus have begun the study of Handel's oratorio of "Judas Maccabæus," which is to be sung at the June festival.

—There is one privilege usurped by the stronger sex, which no doubt the "emancipated" woman of the future will wish at least to shun, and that is his cigar or his pipe. Any woman who has seen a man come in from business, worried and in a frame of mind that, if she is fond of him, she calls nervous, and if she is not, she denominates as cross, and watched the soothing effect that tobacco has upon him, as see sees the lines of care vanish from his face and become replaced by a look of placid contentment, cannot help but feel a certain envy, and a wish that she too, when in a similar mood, could try its softening influence. Perhaps the nearest approach to the comfort giving cigar to which a woman can attain is her cup of tea. It must have been an act of real heroism on the part of our female ancestors in revolutionary times to give up their tea, because of the unjust tax laid upon it. So many of them came from England, where they make more use of it even than in this country, that they must have missed it sadly, and no doubt our little great grandfathers and grandmothers were the recipients of many a hasty word or chastisement in consequence of the abandoned nerve tonic. THE FAMILY TREE.

Captain Craik was the proudest man in America. He had served creditably in the war of 1812, as his father had in the Revolution and his grandfather in the "Old French war"—all captains who had never received a scratch or once encountered the vulgar smell of gunpowder.

That none of his name had ever risen above the rank of captain was a circumstance he not a little plumed himself upon. Generals and commanders-in-chief, he was accustomed to say, were for the most part parvenus, promoted through luck or for accidental reasons. But a captaincy running in a family for three generations was quite another affair.

Family pride was the captain's specialty. How far back he could trace his kindred nobody exactly knew, but it was popularly believed he could, if so minded, produce satisfactory proof that the Craiks had cruised through the flood in their own private yacht.

The captain hated the new and worshiped the old. When he went about it was in an ancient family gig drawn by an old horse of approved extraction, now a mere pedigree in harness, but in whose spavins and windgalls the captain took almost as much pride as he did in the family gout.

Captain Craik was rich, moreover. Time and the natural rise of property had made him so. He would have scorned the acquisition of wealth by any less respectable mode. Trade he looked upon as plebeian and vulgar. Speculation was upstartish, and as for petroleum—faugh!

His daughter and only child he had left to die unforgiven and almost in want for having married a man without a grandfather. The poor girl had besought his forgiveness while her husband lived, but ceased to do so after his death, seeming to look upon such an act as a sort of treason to his memory. Her infant son, however, soon left motherless as well as fatherless, was taken into favor at last for the sake of the blood that was in him, and thus it came that Willard Spence was brought up in his grandfather's house in a way befitting the heir apparent to the handsomest fortune within 50 miles.

Captain Craik would have greatly preferred that his grandson, after finishing at college, should have sat down in gentlemanly idleness and quietly awaited his turn at the family succession. But Willard Spence had other views. He was far from sharing his grandfather's notions on the value of ancestry, and though too discreet to openly laugh at them he felt he was more than likely to run counter to them some day, as his poor mother had done, when his own time to marry came. It was for this reason partly and partly because he had an ambition to be something in his own right that Willard prevailed upon his grandfather to enter him as a student in the office of Mr. Stiles, the leading lawyer of the county.

It was with some reluctance that the old gentleman yielded. He entertained a not very exalted opinion of the bar. But then it was a stepping stone to the bench, and though the family could boast of three successive captains there had never been a chief justice in it. It was this consideration that determined the captain.

If John Stiles was the driest of lawyers, his daughter Mary was the prettiest and most fascinating of girls, and Willard Spence was not the man to be slow in finding it out. It would be the old story over to recount the steps of their falling in love and how deeply they fell in.

Willard ventured to hint to his grandfather one day, not at the state of his feelings, but what a nice, intelligent young lady Miss Stiles was. The old gentleman caught like gunpowder. He had no sense for putting a summary end to his grandson's legal studies and packing him off on a foreign tour, for the young man had said nothing to justify a suspicion of his being in love, and the captain scented danger afar and guessed right enough such a homily on the sin of marrying into families without blood and just such a disinheriting look on then Willard was fain to drop the subject.

If the reader has ever read Blackstone he will remember, and if he hasn't we will tell him, that in the second book there is a folding leaf called a "Table of Descents," wherein the author illustrates the mode of computing kindred by a tabular view of the ancestors and collateral relatives for ten or a dozen generations of a certain fictitious John Stiles. The names are inclosed in little circles, the lines uniting those supposed to have married, while the names are set forth as united by other lines to [illegible]

"I know it," was Willard Spence's cool reply, as he [illegible] this leaf [illegible] "I've done the same thing myself."

That evening it was gently but emphatically dropped in the grandfather's way.

"What's this?" asked the old gentleman, picking it up and putting on his specs.

"A paper I found in one of Mr. Stiles' books," was the innocent reply.

"Humph! A copy of the Stiles' family tree, and—stop, let me see—running back, as I live, through more generations than I supposed any man in the state could count but myself! Who'd have thought that dried up old lawyer had so much blood in him?"

"Not I certainly," acquiesced Willard.

"And see, here's the name of Baker. My maternal great-grandmother's maiden name was Baker. By Jove, I shouldn't wonder if we found ourselves related yet!"

"Nor I either," said Willard drily.

"Miss Stiles—is she very handsome?" inquired the old gentleman.

"Passably," answered the young hypocrite.

Then it occurred to the captain to lecture his grandson on the impropriety of not having returned the paper to Mr. Stiles at once. The young man defended himself with a fib, which the reader may pardon if he likes. He said the paper had dropped out of a book he brought home to read, and of course he would hand it to Mr. Stiles the first thing in the morning.

Next day Willard was sitting in Mr. Stiles' office fumbling over a lawbook and thinking of Mary when his grandfather's gig drove up. Willard wished in his heart it had broken down by the way. The thing he most dreaded was the two old gentlemen getting together and coming to explanations at present.

"Is Mr. Stiles in?" inquired the captain.

"Yes, sir," answered the office boy, ushering the visitor into the back office before Willard had time to tell the lie he had framed or tip the boy the wink.

"Good morning, Mr. Stiles," said the captain blandly.

"Good morning, captain," returned the lawyer a little stiffly. "Pray be seated."

The captain excused the stiffness. A man with a dozen generations at his back had a right to be stiff.

"I come to speak to you on a matter of importance," said the captain, taking the proffered seat.

The lawyer's face brightened at the prospect of securing a valuable client.

"My maternal great-grandmother," the captain proceeded, "was a Baker, and your grandmother"—

"Was a schoolmaster," the other was on the point of interrupting, for he knew the captain's hobby and had little patience with it.

But before the word was spoken, which would doubtless have led to the explanation Willard so much feared, a cry of alarm broke off the conversation. The two gentlemen reached the front door in time to see the captain's horse and gig dashing down the street at a pace that astonished all beholders. For the first time in 20 years old Roan's blood was up, and as he tore along in a gait compounded of equal parts of runaway and stringhalt it was hard to tell which rattled most, the dry bones of the horse or the rickety old gig. The question of which would go to pieces first was speedily settled by one of the hubs striking a post, which in an instant removed the vehicle to its original elements and brought old Roan up standing, his composure completely restored, the crackers having ceased to pop.

"Who on earth did it?" roared the captain.

Willard didn't know, unless it was a sandy haired boy he had just seen dodge round the corner, with a face too dirty to be recognized.

What with the excitement and the gathering up of the fragments and the arrangements necessary to get the captain and old Roan home, the object of the former's visit was for the time forgotten. Before he found an opportunity to renew it, a severe attack of gout laid him up for a season. Meanwhile Willard pressed his suit. Mr. Stiles gave his consent. Mary's had already been obtained, and the "family tree" had settled all scruples with the captain, whose only regret was at not being able to attend the wedding. Whether he ever found out the true state of the case is more than we can tell. If he did, he said nothing, for Mary's loving granddaughterly ways soon completely won his proud old heart, and when little great-grandchildren began to prattle about his knees it wouldn't have made much difference what he found out.—Exchange.

Weak, Irritable, Tired

"I Was No Good on Earth."

Dr. Miles' Nervine strengthens the weak, builds up the broken down constitution, and permanently cures every kind of nervous disease.

"About one year ago I was afflicted with nervousness, sleeplessness, Creeping sensation in my legs, Slight palpitation of my heart, Distracting confusion of the mind, Serious loss or lapse of memory. Weighted down with care and worry. I completely lost appetite And felt my vitality wearing out, I was weak, irritable and tired, My weight was reduced to 160 lbs., In fact I was no good, on earth.

A friend brought me Dr. Miles' book, "New and Startling Facts," and I finally decided to try a bottle of Dr. MILES' Restorative Nervine. Before I had taken one bottle I could sleep as well as a 10-yr.-old boy. My appetite returned greatly increased.

When I had taken the sixth bottle My weight increased to 176 lbs., The sensation in my legs was gone; My nerves steadied completely; My memory was fully restored. My brain seemed clearer than ever. I felt as good as any man on earth. Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is A great medicine, I assure you."

Augusta, Me. WALTER R. BURBANK.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is sold on a positive guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. All druggists sell it at $1, 6 bottles for $5, or it will be sent, prepaid, on receipt of price by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

Highly Humorous.

An American who has been traveling in England declares that he has seldom found the average inhabitant of London inclined to be discourteous. As a rule, any information asked by a stranger is given freely and kindly. But you must not expect an Englishman to forego an opportunity to make a good, robust British joke.

On one occasion the traveler happened to be in the neighborhood of Millbank prison and fancied that he would like a glimpse at that famous place of detention.

"Can you tell me the way to Millbank?" he asked of a stout tradesman whom he met.

"Aye," answered John Bull. "Knock me down and rob me pockets, and you'll soon enough be on the straight road there!"

Then, without vouchsafing any further information, he passed on, with a chuckle.—Youth's Companion.

Stopped the Poaching.

A Scotch gentleman, plagued by poachers, procured a cork leg dressed in a stocking and shoe and sent it through the neighboring village by the town crier, who proclaimed that it had been found in a mantrap the previous night in Mr. Ross' grounds, who desired to return it to the owner. There was no more poaching after that.—Pick Me Up.

Ancient Steelyards.

The steelyards found in Herculaneum are constructed on exactly the same principle as those of today, with a pan and a bar, with a graduated scale, along which a weight was moved. The weight was of metal and commonly represented a human head, sometimes the head of a deity. Mercury being the most popular

Risk In Drawing Inferences.

"Look here, Bloobumper! You know that man you introduced me to a week ago?"

"Yes, Spatts, I remember."

"Well, you said he did a good deal of hard work, and I inferred from that that he was a literary man."

"There is always more or less risk in drawing inferences and in jumping at conclusions. It was all your fault, not mine."

"I've been treating him with distinguished consideration ever since, and now I find that he is nothing but a barber. You told me he did a great deal of head work."

"So he does."

"Well, then, of course I naturally supposed you meant he was a literary man. I think I had a right to infer"—

"That's just the trouble, as I said before. It is unsafe to draw inferences. It was your own choice of your imagined right to do so that led you into the blunder. I suppose if I were to invite you to take a drink you would infer that I meant champagne when water is a much more sensible beverage. People that infer make me weary."

And Bloobumper walked off.—Truth.

An Awful Bad Break.

Mr. Gabbler, who talks much and recklessly, was sitting at a dinner party by the side of Mrs. Portly Pompous, who is very old and fat. During the conversation Gabbler, thinking to flatter the lady weighed 250 pounds, said: "I despise fat women." He proceeded at once what a bad break he had made and attempted to set himself aright by saying: "I beg your pardon. I despise fat women, but only when they are young."

What A Comfort

it is to feel that the appetite can be indulged and gratified without paying dearly for it afterwards. Dyspepsia is so common a complaint that many people look upon it as one of the necessary evils of life. But it is not. It can be avoided if you have it not; it can be CURED if you have it.

The first trouble comes from indigestion. Help Nature at once! Do not let the disease get its first hold upon you!

WARWICK'S BOARD OF EDUCATION SUED.

A New York Architect Tries to Recover for Plans for a School Building.

A suit was tried before Judge Brown in special term, at Newburgh, yesterday, in which H C. Pelton, a New York architect, was plaintiff and the Board of Education of Warwick, defendant. The action was brought to recover compensation for plans for a school building, prepared in 1892 and 1893 Five architects submitted plans, Mr. Pelton's being adopted, subject to changes,

So many changes were made that five different sets of plans had to be drawn They were claimed to be worth $885

The Board refused to pay him on the ground that the building could not be erected according to the plans for the $20,000 appropriated.

Contractor J B. Giles, of this city, submitted figures of estimates made by him on all the different plans, not one of which reached $20,000

The Board finally adopted plans of an Elmira architect, who estimated the cost at $19,000, but the building as it stands cost $23 000.

Judge Brown dismissed Mr. Pelton's complaint.

A PROFITABLE DAIRY

Nearly One Thousand Dollars Cleared from Thirteen Cows in Eight Months —But Not by Selling Milk

From the Sussex Independent.

Mr. William Clark, of Hainesville, is probably the champion butter maker of Sussex county. The following is the remarkable record of his dairy.

Mr. Clark has thirteen cows; two of them are two-year-old heifers.

From April 21, 1894 to January 1, 1895, there was made from this dairy 3,560 pounds of butter which was weighed from the churn before being salted. This gives an average of 237⅓ pounds for each cow, in a period of eight months and ten days. The butter was sold at 25 cents per pound,—a total of $890. There was received from calves $50 and for pork, the pigs having been fed on milk alone, $150.

During the time mentioned there was expended for feed $100, leaving a balance to the credit of the dairy of $990

UP THE MIDLAND

The Cooks Falls Creamery—Will Not Lose His Fingers—The O and W, Summer Books—An Alcohol Refinery Needed—Sullivan County Brains in Middletown—A Good Local Paper.

Correspondence ARGUS and MERCURY.

—The Bunger creamery at Rockland is nearing completion.

—A new paper, to be called the Advocate, will be started at Sidney.

—Norwich will have a Sunday paper in the very near future.

—Work has been begun on the new creamery at Cooks Falls. The railroad company will put up the building and then rent it. Witt, Walker & Tompkins will operate it. New York city has no more honorable milk dealers than the above named firm It has always been the policy of the O. and W. Co. to encourage none but honorable and responsible milk dealers to locate along its line.

—After a careful examination of Conrad Maus, of Long Pond, who had his fingers frozen so badly, it was decided not to amputate the fingers unless serious complications set in. Mr. Maus still hangs on to his fingers and should they get well, as we hope they may, he will have a great deal of trouble in explaining why they are not off, as the ARGUS and MERCURY and several other papers said they were.

—The forthcoming pictorial edition of the Up Midland summer boarding houses by the O. and W will be a new thing in its line and in connection with "Summer Homes" will make that book of still greater value than it has ever been before. The Ontario and Western Company gets out the best "summer homes" book of any railroad running out of New York city

—There are now fifteen acid factories in active operation along the O. and W, between Walton and Washington Manor. It would seem as if these works ought to have a railway siding at some point on the road, instead of sending all their crude alcohol to Binghamton as they now do. Such a siding on the line of the road would be a great saving to all the owners of the Midland acid factories.

—The statement in the Liberty Register, some time ago, that one-fourth of the entire population of Sullivan county came from Sullivan county, and a well known Sullivan county man of a waggish turn of mind remarked that there were more Sullivan county people in Middletown than there were in Sullivan county, for the reason that nearly Sullivan county people thought it was not safe away from it as fast as they could.

—Editor Peck, of the Downsville News, has concluded that if the people of the East Branch Valley can't have a railroad to their satisfaction, they can at least have a good home paper. Mr. Peck had a hard struggle to get a foothold in that locality, and he and his many friends cannot but be pleased at the results. All the type used in the News is set up in its office, and for neatness and newsiness it has no superior in Delaware county. The world has moved in the past eighteen years, and the News has kept up with the procession.

RUSTICUS.

MIDDLETOWN WOMEN.

Unworthy Habits of Haste Among Them.

Many Who Seem to Be Acting a Foolish Part.

Are Not Satisfied by Going About Quietly

They Hurry and Worry, Then Don't Get Sleep

Paine's Celery Compound Their Best Relief

In prescribing Paine's celery Compound for a patient the other day a Middletown physician, who is a specialist in nervous difficulties, declared that there were thousands of such women who were literally killing themselves by too rapid movements.

"They are not satisfied", said he, "with going about doing things in a quiet, ordinary way but rush through with their work and ruin their health as fast as they can So firmly fixed is this habit that there is no need for hurrry.

"They not only rush but worry, and between these two, subject their nervous systems to more wear and tear than anything short of wrought steel could endure."

Whatever the cause, our women, our young girls and even business men are rapidly growing more and more nervous. Prof. Paelps, the great Dartmouth scientist, saw this alarming state of things and concentrated all his energy to remedying it. It was from the formula of this eminent student and thinker that Paine's celery compound was prepared.

Its success in restoring nerve-strength and building up the worn-out body repaid the years of study and investigation that Prof. Phelps conscientiously devoted to the diseases of the stomach and the kidneys, the result of impure blood and impoverished nerves. The astonishing results that have come from its careful use have been the subject of discussion in all the prominent newspapers and magazines in this country, Canada and thoughout Great Britain.

The record of this great blood cleanser, from the time of its discovery up to the present day, has been a marvelous one

It has cured literally thousands of cases of nervous debility, rheumatism, kidney and heart troubles and has made sound sleep possible to countless men and women whose irritable and impoverished nerves were slowly draining them of vitality.

A MASKED BURGLARY RECALLED

Death of Miss Hough, of Wantage—Never Recovered From Her Fright.

From the Sussex County Herald.

Miss Sarah Hough, sister of Sanford Hough, one of the best known residents of Wantage township, was buried in the East Wantage burying ground, on Monday of this week. Miss Hough was in the eighty-fourth year of her age. It will be remembered that she was one of the unfortunates who were bound and gagged by masked burglars at her home in Wantage township, in 1882. Although twelve years have passed since that eventful robbery, vivid accounts of which were printed in all the leading papers of the country, Miss Hough never recovered from the fright she received on that night

SUSSEX COUNTY HORSE THIEVES

The Stevens Brothers Are Shown Mercy in the Passaic County Courts.

In the Passaic county courts at Paterson, yesterday, Lucelius Stevens, of Sussex county, was convicted of stealing a horse from in front of the Oak Ridge Chapel. His brother, Louis, pleaded guilty, to the same charge, last week The brothers took the horse to Port Jervis and tried to sell it, but not succeeding turned it loose in the fields near the Passaic and Sussex county line. The young men pleaded that they were drunk when they stole the horse and sentence was suspended. They were, however, sent to jail for stealing a cow to which they pleaded guilty, last week

Talking of a Billiard and Pool Match With Goshen

Some of Middletown's pool and billiard players are of the opinion that, even if Goshen is too much for Middletown on the bowling alleys, Middletown has wielders of the cue who can get away with anything that Goshen can produce. If Goshen shows any willingness to arrange a match, several of the best players in this city are willing to play on the Midway Park tables.
